

Summer Theater Camp at The Grand is coming! Everyone here is excited for this summer's offerings. We've made some changes for this summer including age range for campers and length of camp for youth. Please look over this information and let us know if you have questions.

Robin Jones, Camp director

This summer's Theater Camp for Teens focuses on a production of "And Then There Were None," the clever, whodunnit classic by the mistress of mystery, Agatha Christie. Ten people are trapped in an old, dark house on a deserted island are being killed one by one. Campers will broaden their skills in acting, stage lighting, and set construction. They will also learn proper British accents as every character is from the United Kingdom.

In our Youth Theater Camp, young campers will perform "Schoolhouse Rock" – the stage version of the beloved Saturday morning cartoon. They will teach audiences "What's your Function?" and that "3 is a Magic Number" and sing "I'm Just a Bill."

Both camps culminate with public performances of their shows. Parents, friends, and families can expect to be transported to worlds filled with mysterious killers, singing legal documents, and delightful storytelling.

It's sure to be a fun, instructive, and exciting summer – I look forward to seeing you there!

Sincerely,
Robin Jones
